

March 4, 2015

To Whom It May Concern:

I am pleased to write this letter of recommendation for Michelle Konrardy. For the last nine years I have taught in the same school district as Michelle and last year she was my oldest daughter's chemistry teacher. It is for these reasons that I feel qualified to write this letter.

From the first day students walk into Michelle's classroom, her high expectations for learning and growth are evident. She runs her classroom very much like a college class. Student responsibility and attentiveness to detail are demanded. The classwork is fast paced and rigorous.

Mrs. Konrardy works hard to prepare her students for the future. In fact, it is not unusual for students to return from college and share that her classes allowed them to test out of college classes or at the very least easily pass science coursework. I have witnessed students' posts on social media celebrating how well prepared Mrs. Konrardy's classes helped them to be for college science.

My daughter identifies Mrs. Konrardy as one of the high school teachers who challenged her the most, made her work the hardest and allowed her to learn the most.

Michelle Konrady's demanding teaching style has been an asset in our school. It will be a loss for our school when she moves on. I hope you will seriously consider her for a teaching position in your district.

Sincerely yours,

Denise Brinkmeier